The Board approved in March 2019 as part of the Centenary celebrations that an 'Associate Fellowship' should be introduced.

2 Criteria for nomination

- 2.1 To be considered for an Honorary Fellowship the person should normally have given distinguished service, made an exceptional contribution in support of University of the Built Environment, have an affiliation with or active involvement with the university or be an alumnus of University of the Built Environment (formerly UCEM) that has given significantly to the sector.
- 2.2 This is usually over a significant period of time; however, this does not exclude those who have made a particularly exceptional contribution over a shorter period.
- 2.3 To be considered for an Associate Fellowship the person should be actively involved with University of the Built Environment, but this will be over a shorter period than an Honorary Fellowship. The award is usually given to recent University of the Built Environment alumni, or those at earlier stages of their career or those recognised for significant academic achievement or merit by the institution.
- 2.4 The following excludes someone from nomination to become an Honorary or Associate Fellow:
- An Honorary or Associate Fellow shall not be given to someone who is currently on the payroll of University of the Built Environment
 - An Honorary or Associate Fellow cannot be a current serving member of the Board
 - An Honorary or Associate Fellow cannot be given to a person who holds a University of the Built Environment Honorary Degree
 - An Honorary or Associate Fellow cannot be a current student with University of the Built Environment.
- 2.5 Associate Fellows can become eligible for progression to an Honorary Fellowship. The following criteria will be given consideration when determining eligibility:
